The RMBS has been held annually since 1964. Initially at sites in and around the Rocky Mountain area, the conference has grown to become a regional symposium with meeting sites throughout the entire Midwest. Attendees come from all over the world. Attendance and professional paper presentation by individuals from outside the Midwest are encouraged and welcome. Accepted papers are published in a nationally distributed Conference Proceedings through the Instrument Society of America (ISA) which will be available at the meeting. Those interested in organizing sessions, or company exhibitions, please contact the Conference Chair.
